

Canisius and Science

Dr. James H. Crowdle, Professor of Chemistry, speaking on "Chemistry at Canisius", discussed the past, present and future development of this science. He pointed out three phases in the development of Chemistry at Canisius. The first was with the opening of the College on Washington St. in 1870. The second was inaugurated when the College moved to its present location. The third phase will date from the opening of the new Horan-O'Donnell science building.
