Changes in the College Faculty augment the teaching staff and extend the curriculum at Canisius. Chief among the changes is the appointment of the Rev. Francis J. Geraghty, S.J., to succeed the Rev. Timothy Dineen, S.J., in the office of Dean of Men. Father Dineen retains his office as Director of the Athletic Association. Father Geraghty came from recent theological studies at St. Andrew-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Rev. Richard F. Grady, S.J., just returned from a year of post-graduate study in Europe, is the new appointee to the English department.

Rev. Raymond J. Anable, S.J., takes the place of Rev. J. Clayton Murray, S.J., as the teacher of Senior Psychology. Father Anable comes here from the Gregorian University, Rome, where he has been doing advanced work in psychology.

Among the lay faculty are Paul J. Parent, Ph.D., new professor of Physical Chemistry. Mr. Parent is a graduate of Catholic University. Mr. Martin J. Griffin, Ph.D., comes here to head the English Department and act as the new director of graduate work. A graduate of Georgetown University, he received his Doctor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

Two new scholastics round out the complete college teaching staff. Mr. Robert W. Burns, S.J., transferred here from Canisius High School, will teach the Classics this year to Freshmen. Mr. Aloysius J. Miller, S.J., having completed his studies at Fordham University, comes to Canisius as teacher of English to Sophomores.
